What: Journey with your friends from Auburn's PGF and experience the magical island of Ireland through a unique lens at a unique moment in history.

With Brexit looming, Ireland stands to be the only English-speaking country left in the EU. A quarter-century after the historic Good Friday Agreement, tensions and uncertainty threaten to destabilize an already fragile peace.

We will journey not only into the heart of conflict, gaining insight from leading Irish and Northern Irish politicians, negotiators, and activists. We will also dive deep into the cultures of this remarkable place, unearthing the stories that brought us to this moment in history. All the while, we will form the beginnings of deep relationships with culture shapers, activists, faith leaders and entrepreneurs innovating—sometimes at great risk—to transform their societies. This trip is being curated by Auburn and Telos, and will be co-led by world-renowned Irish and Northern Irish artists and peacemakers.

Accommodations & Itinerary: This program is being designed specifically for the PGF community. We will stay in unique, 5-star properties in the West of Ireland, Belfast, and Dublin. Participants should arrive by the afternoon of May 16th, in Shannon, Ireland and depart from Dublin any time on May 23rd. If you prefer to arrive and depart from the same airport, Dublin and Shannon airports are about a three hour car ride or four hour bus ride apart. More details on the itinerary and accommodations will be available in the coming weeks.
